10. STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE
Annesley, a Federation Queen Anne style single-storey brick and tile residence and associated garden, has cultural heritage significance for the following reasons:
  - the place is an excellent example of the Federation Queen Anne style;
  - its well considered and finely executed design displays artistic excellence;

the place is one of the largest early residences built in the No. 1 Mount Lawley Estate and the construction of the place helped establish the visual and social character of the area. The landscaped gardens are indicative of the garden suburb ideal that was being promoted in 1913;

the place is highly valued by the local community for its aesthetic associations, being an attractive and imposing home of an earlier era, set in a large garden fitting for the period of the place;

the past use of the place as a rest home, private hospital and nursing home add to its social value; and, the size and quality of Annesley, as well as its siting and garden make it an uncommon structure.

The landscaped verges of Lawley Crescent and Storthes Street are important elements that contribute to the aesthetic qualities of the place.
